

LOU WAS NOT THERE

Society Men Visit the Waterloo Street Mission

TO LOOK AT MRS. MORRISON

They Were Disappointed, But the Self-Sacrificing Workers Held a Housing Good Meeting.

"Dying for me, yes, dying for me; Dying for me, yes, dying for me; Oh, it was wonderful, how could it be? Dying for me, for me."

There was a motley throng in the Waterloo street mission last night as the society men visited the old Methodist house which was used through the day doors and windows to an equally motley throng. Probably the Reverend McMillan had never before seen so many persons inside the narrow, roomy building which there is, recently been converted as a temple of the Lord. Part were attracted there by an honest religious fervor; others by an idle curiosity, and all by a desire to see the woman who from the degradation of sin and debauchery had caught the religious inspiration there and was being lifted up.

But Lou Morrison, the subject of all the curiosity, was not present. Cloistered in her home with some of the earnest, prayerful women of the mission she was offering supplication to him who declared that there is more joy among the angels over one sinner that repenteth than over ninety and nine just men, who have no need of repentance. If there is, the promise of the celestial throne blended with the triumphant notes of the song which the variegated crowd at the mission sang with one voice.

Inside the Mission.

In the center of the mission hall is a room, upon which is an organ, a table and a few chairs. The misty odor of the place was throbbing by the delicate perfume of a bowl of sweet peas and carnations on the table. Around the organ and the table was clustered the crowd, all those in front being women of the W. C. T. U. and others from the rapidly improved building were other women, whose painted faces and hard-worn expressions betokened the effects of a life of error. The hoodlum was present in scores, and stood shoulder to shoulder with well-dressed society men, whose faces wore smiling smiles and whose manner indicated that the saving of souls must be a damned bore in comparison to playing the razzes or giving a wine supper to a popular sobriety. But they were all there, and most of them listened respectfully and quietly to the services which followed their heads in feigned submission during the fervent prayers. The service was not an elaborate one. There was no liturgy and little else that belongs to the conventional service. One by one those present ran and hid in simple language the story of their experience. Between the prayers were sung by the entire congregation, and at the close even the toughs and the society men joined with the members and the triumphant notes of "Old Hundred" shook the walls and ceiling of the mission.

Lou Morrison's house was closed last night. Mrs. Morrison has not yet decided what disposition she will make of the place.

Campen of No. 963 South Division street, to the cathedral followed by a long procession of old acquaintances and friends of the pioneer family. A large delegation from the Old Settlers' association was included in the procession. At the cathedral the funeral rites were performed by the Rev. Father. They in the presence of a large congregation. The remains were laid to rest in the St. Andrew's cemetery. The following old acquaintances and friends of the family acted as pall bearers: Max Riquette, Phil Graham, A. Richardson, J. M. Stanley, John Powell and F. J. Everhardt.

His Opinion of the Cook Case.

Judge Burlingame says he is surprised at the decision of the supreme court in granting Margaret Cook, the procuree, a new trial. The supreme court held that if the girls, Lillie Pale and Nellie Heban, were found by Mrs. Cook in a house of ill-repute she could be liable under the law. Judge Burlingame says it seems as if the court had overlooked the fact that Frank Smith, the side partner of Mrs. Cook, took the girls to the house of ill-fame for the express purpose of allowing Mrs. Cook to talk with them and induce them to enter her house at Northville.

KILLED ON THE ROAD

Michigan Central Passenger No. 110 Has a Sad Accident.

MAN CRUSHED TO DEATH

The Remains Brought to This City. Supposed to be L. O. Barry, of Hastings.

Conductor Baker's passenger train No. 110 on the Michigan Central railroad, due to arrive here from Detroit at 10:20 p. m., killed a man last night on the track a short distance below Caledonia station. The remains were brought to this city in a baggage car and turned over to Coroner Locher.

The train was nearly an hour late. The glare of the headlights revealed to Engineer Frank McDevitt the body of a man lying on the track ahead of him and he gave the signal of an on-break, but before the train could be stopped it had run over the body and dragged it several rods. The body was horribly mangled and mutilated. The upper portions of the head and face were crushed and ground to a pulp and one hand was missing. The legs were badly cut.

Coroner Locher found a purse containing papers which showed that the man was L. O. Barry. There were several certificates of deposit in the Hastings National bank for sums aggregating over $300 and about $10 in cash. There was also a Michigan Central shipping bill issued to Barry Bros. for one real calf which had been shipped over the company's road. On a fragment of his shirt bosom were the initials "L. O." and pieces of a broken bottle and a cork fell from a coat pocket. It is thought by the train men that he was a member of the excursion party that came from down the road yesterday to Ottawa Beach and that he had fallen from the train or had left it at Parmelee and started to walk back toward Caledonia. A dispatch was sent to the night operator at Hastings inquiring if he knew Barry, but he did not. The coroner delivered the remains to Undertaker Mason and an inquest will be held this morning at 8 o'clock.

Benefit to Be Given at North Park Sunday.

There is no doubt but what the attendance at North Park Sunday will be unusually large. The attractions to be offered are meritorious ones and the money received from such will be used in a way that will do a power of good. Some weeks ago Harry Horner received severe injuries during his aerial act that incapacitated him from work. He is in such circumstances that a substantial present would be appreciated. A gentleman at heart, a clever performer, there is no reason why he should receive no testimony. The North Park association have kindly volunteered to benefit for the disabled performer, and the event takes place next Sunday. The program complete will be announced later. A new feature recently added at North Park are the new bath houses. The beach is a fine one and suite can be rented for 15 cents each or two in one bath room for 25 cents. Ladies and children should not forget that Prof. Andra's equine circus gives an entertainment every afternoon this week at 4:30.

TEETH!

Beautiful teeth are a luxury for possessors. We have heard people say they would give everything they had for such beautiful teeth as so and so had.

The true secret is not so much in the perfection of the teeth as in the snow like whiteness and the brilliant polish.

All teeth are capable of this with proper care. Washes and pastes should be avoided as they are injurious as are also many of the powders.

A properly prepared powder, however, is the only right and perfect thing to cleanse and preserve the teeth. This we have succeeded in producing after much labor and expense. The formula is by one of the most noted dentists of this country and is absolutely perfect.

SAFODENTA—Is the name we have adopted for it, and we are the exclusive owners and manufacturers. We guarantee Safodenta to be the only perfect tooth powder on the market. That it will prevent decay and render the teeth more beautiful with less trouble than any other preparation to be had.

READ THIS!

For over three years I have suffered from the worst form of Catarrh of the head and throat, but neglected it until my bronchitis, when became chronic. I was short of breath, my sleep at night was restless and broken by sneezing spells. My chest felt as if there was a weight upon it. My nostrils were completely closed. I had been repeatedly told that there was no help for me. Almost without hope, I called upon Dr. Pilcher. I was benefited from the first. I feel like altogether a new man, and cannot say too much in praise of this method of treatment.
